L'INDIEN

1937

Dear Clarence
 I wish you all the luck in the world. Marv
 I enjoyed being a friend of yours
 all these years.
 I have known you
 for years but not photos. but I considering that you were a big friend.
 Love your classmate

Dear "Sunshine"
 I hope that before
 your false teeth
 and hair fall out
 you will be able to play the "B."

S' Long you

Well Clarence
 we've had fun
 together and if Edna comes this summer we will
 have money more.
 Be good and amount
 to something.
 Cheers

THE YEARBOOK OF
INDIANA HIGH SCHOOL
INDIANA . PENNSYLVANIA

FOREWORD

L'Indien is the students' catalogue. It is a pictorial summary of the year's work. If it serves as a pleasant memorial of the daily activities and adventures in which the students of Indiana High School have participated during the past year, then the editors will be content that L'Indien has served its designed purpose.

DEDICATION

TO

HARRY A. CANFIELD

whose sympathetic understanding and zeal in teaching music, whose strong personality penetrated with wit and humor, and whose untiring willingness to help music lovers, has won for him a favorable spot in the hearts of all students, this issue of L'Indien is respectfully dedicated.

*Congratulations and best wishes for future
success.

The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the asymptotic behavior of the solutions of the system (1) as $t \rightarrow \infty$. It is shown that the solutions of the system (1)
 tend to zero as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if and only if the matrix
 A is stable.

Second Semester
Student Council

The Student Council composed of all the homeroom presidents is the central organization of student participation in the school. The Student Council of the first semester succeeded in accomplishing many useful things for the benefit of the school. One of the most important is that they acted as a clearing house for all the school problems. Another is that they made drive for better sportsmanship at games and all the extra activities of the school. The most outstanding activity was the planning and organizing of Parent Guest Days as a result of which many pupils of all years had a parent as their guest for a school session. The council attempted to solve problems by an exchange of opinions. Sponsor, Mr. J. A. Lubold.

The second semester Student Council composed of the homeroom presidents who were elected to serve in that capacity for the second semester continued the work started by the former councils. The president of the council led in the discussion of problems of everyday school life. In an effort to bring about better contact in the classrooms, clubs, journals to and from school assemblies etc. The council presented topics for discussion in the bi-weekly homeroom programs. Each Student Council member selected some outstanding problem of his homeroom and presented it for discussion in the council meeting. He then made an effort to keep his own homeroom informed of the outcomes of these debates. Sponsor, Mr. J. A. Lubold.

ONE of the most active organizations of the high school is the Junior Red Cross Council, which had as its main purpose to give service when needed and to create friendly relations with schools in foreign countries. The council distributed food and toys to families at Christmas time, made an album which was sent to a foreign country, and took part in collecting money for the benefit of flood sufferers. A first class was sponsored by the organization from which there were thirty-eight graduates. The council sponsored a dance at Easter time and with the funds secured sent a delegate to the Red Cross convention in Washington. They also sent delegates to a convention held in Hershey, Pennsylvania. Sponsor, Miss Helen Herstein.

The purpose of the Student Safety Patrol is to promote courtesy, health, and safety among the students as they work and play together. The direction of traffic within the building as thirteen hundred students move about, the guidance of the students in matters pertaining to health and cleanliness, and the promotion of courtesy and safety among so many persons associating in so small a space have occupied the attention of the Patrol. A presentation of problems within the school, and a discussion of suitable methods for solving such problems, occupy most of the time at the average meetings. The Safety Patrolers were identified by the large white badges they wore. Sponsor, Mr. J. A. Lubold.

THE HIGH ARROW," and "L'Indien" are the projects of the class in journalism. The school newspaper is published bi-weekly and has as its platform: to set up higher standards of scholarship, to develop a broader understanding between the students and faculty, to present students, parents, and friends of the school with a fuller appreciation of the highschool and its work, and to increase the interest in all the activities of the school. The work of publishing the newspaper and yearbook is divided among the members of the journalism class according to their abilities, and is done under the supervision of editors and managers. The staff seemed to enjoy the journalistic work and gained much experience in that field. Sponsor, Mr. Lambert Joseph.

Many of the members of the Junior Press Club will probably represent our school in the publication of its newspaper and yearbook in a few years. The club is composed of students from the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades who are interested in the production and contents of magazines and newspapers. As a part of this work, they practice writing news stories, editorials, and features; and they study the various phases of journalistic writing. The object of the club was to publish a paper of its own, and this desire was fulfilled when it took over the duties of the journalism class and published an issue of the High Arrow. This experience was much enjoyed by each member of the club who contributed. Sponsor, Miss Melinda Detwiler.

It is a well known organization that was responsible in part for the production of the Senior Dramatic Club presentation, "Whistling in the Dark." Another play, "The Red Lamp," was presented at an Eastern Star banquet at in a junior assembly program. The club sponsored an alumni dance and the annual parents dance. In the programs of the club, one-act plays, short skits, pantomimes, and reports on the lives of famous actors and actresses were given. The club also studies facial expressions, make-up, stage-setting, and the imitation of different dialects. The club tried to stimulate an interest in and willingness for active participation in the club meetings. Sponsors, Mr. Carroll Rupp and Mrs. Mary McGregor

The Eleventh Year Dramatic Club has been active as assistant to the Twelfth Year Club in its major undertakings. Together they sponsored the annual parents dance and the alumni dance. The club contributed several of its members to the cast of the dramatic club production, "Whistling in the Dark." One-act plays, pantomimes, and readings were given in the regular club meetings. These meetings were entirely under student supervision. The club officers appointed committees to be in charge of a program for each meeting. Among the studies of the club were facial expression, demonstrations on make-up, stage-setting, and other phases of dramatic arts. The club also tried to further more distinct speaking. OWING to the size of this organization, the club was divided into two divisions. In the club meetings, monologues, readings, one-act plays, skits, and reports were given. A junior assembly program was sponsored by both divisions. A one-act play, "Pearls", a reading, several musical selections, and a pantomime constituted the program. Several demonstrations on the art of make-up were given in the bi-weekly programs of the club. The eleventh year dramatic club presented a one-act play for the tenth year club. The purposes of this club are to forward an interest in dramatic arts, to develop better speaking habits, and to provide entertainment for the members. The club is sponsored by Miss Helen Holstein and Miss Elizabeth McClure.

Due to the large enrollment of this organization, the club was divided into two sections, each meeting once a month. Progress was thus retarded, but the young actors and actresses made good use of their time. Well-written plays for study and appreciation were brought to the club meetings, and as many as possible were presented that each member might be given an opportunity to appear in more than one performance. After the club members became more experienced in acting and studying dramatization, they wrote a play and produced it themselves. In the club meetings, monologues and readings were also given to train the members in speaking clearly and distinctly. The club also studied stage-setting and lighting effects. Sponsor, Miss Gertrude Handler.

THIS organization is composed of the younger students of the high school. The members believe in starting early in the field of drama and began with the study of the fundamentals of acting, make-up, and costuming. One of the members wrote several short plays, which were presented in their regular meetings. The club had a desire to increase their ability to speak before a group of people. During their activities throughout the year, the members had the opportunity of fulfilling this desire by participating in at least one play, and by giving readings and reports on the different phases of the art of dramatization. The members are preparing to participate in major productions. Sponsor, Miss Evelyn Hudson.

The members of the dramatic club with the youngest aspiring actors and actresses were selected from the sections of the seventh grade by try-outs given at the beginning of the school term. The purposes of the club are to initiate the student in the field of dramatic arts and to foster that interest until the members of the club will develop into more mature and experienced actors and actresses throughout the affairs of their high school career. Each member is given an opportunity to participate in a play, and anyone who is original enough may attempt to write a play of his own. If he succeeds, he is encouraged to produce it, selecting the characters and directing it himself. Sponsor, Miss Charlotte Chapman.

LATIN may be a dead language to some people, but it is quite alive to the members of the third year Latin class, which organized a club during the class period. The students thought they might gain a better knowledge of Roman customs in political and social life by this club. By playing Latin games involving words and constructions, by correlating Roman holidays with American holidays, and by singing well-known songs set to Latin words, the club sought to make their classwork more interesting. A dinner served in the Roman style was held at the home of one of the members. At one of the school entertainments the club sold candy contributed by the members to get money for a club picture. Sponsor, Miss Helen Hersperger.

The French Club was a new organization which was added to the activity schedule this year. Students taking French formed the personnel of the club. The group engaged in many activities throughout the school year. A skating party, weiner roast, and several parties constituted some of their affairs. In February, a tea dance in honor of George Washington's birthday was held by the club. In their regular meetings, the members gave talks on famous sites in France, French history, French people, etc. Miss Charlotte Chapman, a member of the high school faculty, spoke in the club about her experiences on a trip to France which she enjoyed last summer. Many members of the club correspond with French students. Sponsor, Miss Anna Thomas.

THE Surveying Club is composed of a group of senior boys and girls who are interested in the different phases of mathematics and engineering. When the weather permitted, the meetings of the club were held outside. During the winter, however, speakers from the highway department addressed the club, giving the members much practical knowledge concerning surveying and road construction, and demonstrating the use of the surveying instruments. Some of the pieces of equipment which the club found necessary to use were a transit, plumbobs, and stakes for measuring long distances. The members found pleasure in locating various landmarks around the school and in deciding the height of various parts of the athletic field. Sponsor, Mr. Paul Lechlin.

Plink, plunk, brrrrrrr. What's all that noise? It's only the busy activities of the Commercial Honor Club which is composed of commercial students maintaining an average grade of C throughout their work in high school. During the year the club has sponsored many activities which include a Leap Year Dance, banquet, theater party, field trip to the college to study office equipment, and a weiner roast. In their regular meetings the club had the privilege of hearing a talk by a business man or college representative, or had a round table discussion on an appropriate topic which they thought would encourage correct business attitudes. Most of the members plan to become clerks, secretaries, etc. Sponsor, Mrs. Margaret V. Farster.

STUDENTS from the tenth year class, who desire to learn more about politics and the offices held by citizens of our country, have organized a political club for that purpose. The members engaged in many outstanding activities some of which were a visit to the Indiana county court house, a visit to the jail, a trip to the county home, and the presentation of a mock trial of a civil case. The club had the privilege of having a highway patrolman, an attorney, a justice of the peace, and the chairmen of the Democratic and Republican committees speak to them. Members of the club waged several debates on current topics. They reviewed important events and current events dealing with political affairs. Sponsor, Mr. Lisle Reed.

Many students of the ninth grade formed a political club that they might study life in our community, the relations of our community, state, and national problems, and other social science problems. In its regular meetings the club discussed the supreme court problems and the strike difficulties. The members held a formal debate on the question, Resolved: That our officials should have higher qualifications and higher salaries. The club visited the county jail, the county home, and the court when it was in session. Several of the county officials visited the club and discussed their respective duties. The club held panel discussions, open forums, and debates on important questions. Sponsor, Miss Gladys Moorhead.

CRACK, bang, boom! The Senior Rifle Club, composed of boys and girls of the senior high school, are holding a shooting match. The rifle team is a member of the National Rifle Association matches. Junior NRA medals were given to the winners according to their shooting ability. The club tried to promote safety in handling firearms to promote better citizenship through cooperation and to further interest by future members. The rifle team engaged in interscholastic and non interscholastic matches, which included a match against the high school teams from Los Angeles, Del Norte and other schools. The boys and girls rifle clubs in the county are forming a better team. Sponsor, Mr. David Dunmire.

The Junior Rifle Club is composed of the younger members of the school who enjoy the sport of target shooting. The primary purpose was to learn how to handle firearms. After they had learned to use their guns with safety, the members tried to improve their marks on a target. The rifle club was divided into two teams. After a match the best marksman of the two teams were chosen to compete with the members of the senior rifle team. The club also held contests to determine who had the steadiest hand and who was the best marksman. The members place safety as being a good sport. Concerning the youth of the members of this club, they had a very good appreciation of the members of the senior rifle team. Sponsor, Mr. Clair Borland.

HAVE you seen any students carrying bows and quivers of arrows? Don't be alarmed. The members of the archery club are living up to the name "Little Indians." Good use of leisure time, muscular coordination, good sportsmanship, and the development of a hobby interest, are a few of the aims of the club. The members make their own bows and arrows, thus developing a certain amount of skill in woodcraft. The shooting practices and archery meets are held on the high school athletic field. This organization has aroused much interest among the senior high school students. Toward the end of the year the amateur archers became more skilled in target shooting. They seemed to enjoy the novel sport. Sponsor, Mr. Ralph Widdowson.

Many members of the junior and senior high school classes have found pleasure and useful knowledge in the work and activities of the Aero-nautical Club. Their aims have been: to achieve skill in the art of model building through the actual construction of models, to excel in the use and handling of tools, and to study the history and future of aviation. One of the most interesting activities of the year was a demonstration on flying models which was given on the high school athletic field. The club also held a model contest. The members took a trip to Pittsburgh where they viewed the airplanes in the large airports there. In the regular meetings discussions on current topics pertaining to aviation were held. Sponsor, Mr. Ward Johnson.

THE Home Economics Club has been doing some very interesting and active work all during the school year. The general theme of the club, "Personality Development," has been the subject of many interesting meetings. On October 31 all sorts of ghosts, goblins, and witches met in the high school gymnasium for a Halloween dance sponsored by the club. At Christmas time the club members contributed toys and books which were given to the children at the Indiana hospital. The club started an organization in the Commodore high school. In May several delegates were sent to the State Home Economics Convention in Pittsburgh. In the spring a farewell party was held for the senior members of the club. Sponsor, Miss Alice Clements.

Snip, snip, snip, go the scissors of the busy members of the Homecraft Club. This organization is the place where girls are given an opportunity to learn to knit, crochet, embroider, or do other handwork in which they are interested. It provides a means of exchange of ideas on different home crafts, and creates hobbies for leisure time. During the year the members made rugs from discarded materials, did tied and dyed work, and other crafts. They held an exhibit of the results of their work. The club members sold articles which they made to get enough money for their yearbook picture. A field trip to the stores to view materials was another activity of this industrious club. Sponsor, Miss Laura Buterbaugh.

SENIOR Choral is an organization of girls from the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. The group made a study of the fundamentals and various problems of the voice and sang two, three, and four-part songs that are beautiful, but seldom heard. In a Christmas assembly program the Senior Choral group cooperated with the other choral clubs and sang a selection of well known Christmas carols. They also presented a spring program in assembly, which program was also given to several of the Indiana service clubs. In addition to the many times this club has responded to invitations to sing in school programs and throughout town, they have studied famous composers and their music. The group enjoyed this study of music. Sponsor, Mr. James Remley.

Beautiful young voices, without the cultivated touch added, form the personnel of the Junior Choral. The members took part in a Christmas assembly program; cooperated in the presentation of the junior operetta, "A Christmas Carol," and took a caroling tour through the streets of Indiana. They also had two skating parties and a hike in the spring. On May 1 the choral group visited the Training School and participated in a joint May Day program. The aspiring young girl songsters had an earnest desire to gain cultivated voices. They tried to accomplish this by singing individual and group exercises to develop the voice. The purpose of the organization was to foster an appreciation for music. Sponsor, Mr. James Remley.

THE Senior Mixed Chorus has been very active in choral work throughout the years. The members participated in a Christmas assembly program, presented a group of selections in the Presbyterian church, and contributed most of the characters for the annual operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance." At every meeting people from the group presented a short program, consisting of solos, duets, quartets, etc. This idea was developed to aid in prohibiting stage fright, to acquaint members with one another, and to give the members practice in singing before an audience. The chorus has been doing a capella work in their regular semi-weekly meetings. In music week, the chorus presented a concert sponsored, Mr. Harry A. Cannell.

Can they harmonize? You should hear these songsters as they warm up their voices and burst into a four part song. This organization has participated in many programs throughout the school year. At the Teachers' Institute they sang a selection of songs. They cooperated with the other junior music organizations in presenting the Christmas operetta. In a musical Christmas assembly program, the Junior Mixed Chorus sang a group of well known carols. In the spring they gave a concert. The members attempted to learn to sing a capella music and other beautiful selections, and to develop a deeper appreciation for music. They also learned about many renowned composers and their music. A GREAT deal of musical ability, as well as enjoyment, has come to the boys who have been members of the Glee Club this year. This organization is composed entirely of young men who are musically inclined. They learned a great deal about the art of music through their singing of selections written by the old masters. In their regular meetings short programs were presented by the students. Members of the club participated in the presentation of the annual operetta. The organization also aided in presenting special assemblies and a spring concert. It has also been called upon for selections by the various service clubs of Indiana. The club met semi-weekly for the sole purpose of singing. Sponsor, Mr. Harry A. Canfield.

The junior orchestra is composed of students who are just starting out in the field of music. The organization met for its rehearsals on Friday evening, and attempted to learn the beginning fundamentals of orchestral work. The purpose of this course was to provide the players of orchestral instruments an opportunity for the enjoyment of this form of ensemble playing. The junior orchestra was open to any member of the school who by "try-outs" could demonstrate sufficient training on a specific instrument to enable him to play in a group. The provision for music in the highschool work was to strengthen the individual by providing him with a wholesome outlet for his emotions. Director, Mr. Harry A. Canfield.

The senior orchestra is composed of students who have achieved a high level of instrumental music, and those who desire to work on a more advanced level of orchestral literature. The study and performance of representative examples of worthwhile musical literature especially chosen to meet the requirements of the ensemble form the basis of this course. Among the many activities of the orchestra during the past school year were the presentation of a program in the First Assembly hall in music week, and a spring concert in music week. The orchestra played in the assembly hall for the past school year, and a spring concert in music week. The orchestra played in the assembly hall for the past school year, and a spring concert in music week. The orchestra played in the assembly hall for the past school year, and a spring concert in music week.

The band is considered a form of musical organization rather than a musical ensemble. Special care was taken in providing characteristic and literature with an emphasis on technique. The band played at all the home games during the football season, and traveled to Punsutawney to play. The band also played for numerous parades, rallies, etc., and presented a concert in the Presbyterian Church. During the week the band joined with the other organizations in presenting a concert. Several members of the band attended the all-western state band at Sunset and the band also attended the all-western state band at Sunset and the band also attended the all-western state band at Sunset.

THAT ever popular Christmas story, "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens, was presented in musical form by the members of the junior music organizations of the school. The two-act production takes place in England with the immortal Cratchit family, Bob Cratchit, played by John Simpson; Mrs. Cratchit, Charlotte Stidham; Tiny Tim, Warren Dickey; Belinda, Mary Ellen Ditmar; Peter, Thad Massagee. Ebenezer Scrooge was portrayed by Harry Brassfield; Fred, James Stadtmiller; Jacob Marley, Bernard Cunningham; Memory, Margaret Jones; Elderly Lady, Mary Jane Dunn. The staging of the musical play was under the direction of Mr. Rupp. Mr. Remley had charge of the choruses in which he tried to improve singing techniques.

"The Pirates of Penzance" or "The Slave of Duty" was presented by the senior music organizations of the highschool on April 8 and 9. The opera takes place in the middle of the nineteenth century. The characters consisted of the members of the pirate band: Frederick, a pirate apprentice; Major General Stanley of the British Army; his many daughters; Mabel, the youngest with whom Frederick falls in love and Ruth, a piratical maid-of-all work. The orchestration, scenery, and costumes of the operetta were furnished by the T. Music Library. The choral parts and orchestration was under the direction of Mr. Harry A. Canfield, assisted by Mr. James Remley. The dramatization was in charge of Mr. C. W. Rupp.

ON February 18 and 20 the Senior Dramatic Club with the aid of the Junior Dramatic Club presented "Whistling in the Dark". The setting of the play is in April in the living room of Jacob Dillon's house near Spuyten Duyvil, suburbs of New York City. The characters included Dillon's gangsters, Wallace Porter, a writer, Toby Van Buren, his fiancée, a police sergeant, and Hilda. The play was selected as a study in dramatic interpretation. In endeavoring to depict the behavior of this group of gangsters the cast tried to extend a lesson to the youth of the play to avoid the pitfalls of that void existence. The play was under the direction of Mr. C. W. Rupp and the student directors Alice Moorhead, Mildred Gessler, and Geraldine Weaver.

Late in May the senior class presented their annual play. "Big-Hearted Herbert" was chosen for the production. The characters consisted of Herbert Kalness, Robert Kalness, Elizabeth Kalness, Herbert Kalness, Jr., Alice Kalness, Martha, Andrew Goodrich, Amy Lawrence, Jim Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich, and Mr. and Mrs. Havens. Mr. Kalness has some very old-fashioned ideas, and wishes his son to work instead of attending college. After a very hilarious comedy he submits to the wishes of his family and gives up his conservative ideas. Alice and Andrew provide the usual love interest, and the affair ends happily. The play was under the direction of Mr. C. W. Rupp and student directors, Alice Moorhead and Mary Jane Rolley.

FOOTBALL TEAM

THE Indiana football eleven finished its 1937 season by winning no games, losing five and tying three. Lack of experience proved a handicap to Coach Shane's gridders by causing them to drop several close games. Gaining the much-needed experience as the season progressed, the team came through to tie three games out of the last four. Playing larger and more rugged foes, the little Indians displayed such a fighting spirit that at no time did the margin of defeat extend over two touchdowns.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

After a mediocre start, the 1937 varsity basketball team ended its season with ten victories against nine defeats. Joining Section V of the W.P.I.A.L., Indiana finished in last position. The record was two victories and six defeats. Coach Leech finally found an effective combination and finished the season by winning seven out of the last nine starts. Indiana retained the Indiana County Class "A" championship by virtue of two victories in the Teachers' College tournament games.

TRACK TEAM

ENTERING two meets during the 1936 season, the Indiana track and field team came through with flying colors. The squad took second place in the Pitt Junior College Meet held at Johnstown and first place in the Indiana County Class "A" Meet. The county meet proved to be a nip-and-tuck affair between Indiana and Homer City. Behind by a half-point and entering the last event, Indiana's mile relay team barely nosed out Homer City, providing the margin of victory. The final standing: Indiana 62½; Homer City 62¼.

JUNIOR VARSITY

THE Jay Vees, under the tutelage of Coach Shane, completed another successful season by winning nine of their fourteen contests. Winning the C.A.A.L. of Indiana County, the Jay Vees, after a slow start, finished the season by taking second place. The squad is composed principally of freshmen and sophomores. The objectives of such a team are to give more boys a chance to play, and to give them experience for playing varsity ball. Later these players are absorbed by the varsity.

VARSITY "I" CLUB

THE Varsity "I" Club consisting of boys who have earned letters in sports, proved to be one of the most active in school. It sponsored two dances—a joint-dance with the Commercial Honor Club and a basketball dance after the Kittanning game. Also an assembly program was presented to the school. As one of the activities the boys of the club bought varsity sweaters. One of the chief aims of the club was to promote better sportsmanship in our relations with other schools. Sponsor, Mr. Harold Lutz.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASS'N

The Girls Athletic Association, better known as the G.A.A., is divided into two groups—Senior and Junior. This club was formed on behalf of those girls who desire an opportunity to participate in athletic events. So large an interest was shown in this club that two groups had to be organized. These girls study sports favorable to the season; namely, basketball, volleyball, mush ball, and soccer. Sportsmanship towards the home team and opponents is also stressed. Sponsor, Miss Frances Broderick.
